Customer Reviews

Lee Storbels along with the help of Jesse Florea, in the recently release Case for Christ For Kids (90 day devotional), bring a modern day classic to pre-teens. While the title contains "...for kids", this is instead is a great book for pre-teens through the middle school/Jr. high years. I have used the student version of Case for Christ, and have found it very helpful in teaching and also in giving out to my older more mature 8th graders. This book however is what has been needed for late elementary years into early 6th and 7th grades. It is also is great for young teens who have just excepted Christ and are just beginning their faith journey. Each of the 90 easy to read devotionals are one page front and back. They are quick, interesting reads written in a form that will draw students in by starting off with an informational story about our world. From how hot dogs are made to baseball to silly warning labels each devotionals starts off with some real from their world. The devotionals then lead to the "examine the case" section where the young reader is challenged to examine the real Christ. The devotionals are connected together by the book's systematic flow of information creating a smart "case for Christ", that makes sense while slowly guides young minds from just facts to real faith. This would be a great book to pick up for your MS/JH ministry, but also might be a great book to pick up for Children's ministry to be given out to students the year before they enter your youth program. Once again, I reiterate even though the book might appear to be written "...for kids", it is an excellent book for students that might see themselves moving beyond that label. However you choose to use it, I would suggest pick up a couple copies to have around to give out students and parents in your ministry setting.

I've been reading this with my daughter and I find most of the daily devotions to be really good. As you would expect Lee Strobel does a good job helping children with objections to the faith. The one thing that could improve the book I think, would be to use discussion topics that are not just related to the U.S so that children from other countries can feel more involved. Good stuff though. Another book that defends the faith for youth but set in a fiction story is Godstone, so I'd recommend that one too. Godstone - The Kairos Boxes

Lee Strobel is great! And I love that he has provided this 90 Day Devotional just for kids!!! Kids are very inquisitive at this age - they want to know- WHO? HOW? And especially WHY??? But I think sometime us adults just really don't know where to begin to answer all their questions without massive overload on their ever-learning brains and God-hungry hearts. Thankfully, there is help. Lee digs to the heart of the issue concerning who the real JESUS is. This devotional is perfect in that it takes it one day at a time, explaining and confirming the things that we believe. I would recommend reading this DEVO every night with your child. I think it will spark some really awesome God-conversations!!!

Lee Strobel was the teaching pastor of Willow Creek Community Church in Illinois, from 1987 to 2000, before shifting his focus to writing and producing his TV show. Today, Lee speaks at churches and has been a board member of the Willow Creek Association. Strobel was recently awarded an honorary doctoral degree by Southern Evangelical Seminary in recognition of his work with Christian apologetics. Probably his most famous book, The Case for Christ of Lee's journey to becoming a Christian. The book summarizes Strobel's interviews with 13 evangelical Christian scholars all defending their view of the historical reliability of the New Testament. This new Edition,

The Case for Christ for Kids (a 90 day devotional) is directed at kids ages 9-12 and explores the life of Jesus and what it means to be a Christian. This book is great for kids who want to learn more about Christianity so they can share it with their friends. This three month devotional is easy to read and is packed with stories, history and applicable stories that tie back to the life of Christ. Each day's reading is only a page, it typically starts with a story or something fun, then moves into questions and closes with a scripture. The book even has an extensive index in the back for locating favored readings. This would make a great Youth Group resource or a good gift for a young teen in your life. Thank you to Zondervan for this advance copy in exchange for a fair and honest review.

Lee Strobel has long been a voice in Christian Apologetics, most known for bestselling book The Case for Christ. With significant amounts of research this book has been a staple in Christian apologetics. Not only has Strobel written versions for children, his latest in the series is a fantastic devotional for kids, Case for Christ for Kids: 90 Day Devotional. Each devotional has a case to examine, which is a personal story or a fun story to get the reader's attention. Strobel then invites the reader to examine the case, getting the reader to dive deeper into the story/example and what that means. It's the perfect way to keep readers focused! Finally each devotion ends with the final word, a verse to emphasize the teaching just read. They aren't too long or overwhelming, but not surface level either. With creative and fun writing, Strobel has created a devotional for kids that is not only enjoyable and entertaining to read, but provides truth for kids to work through and make their own. If you're looking for the perfect stocking stuffer, look no further! (Thank you Zondervan for a free copy in exchange for my honest review). Originally posted at [...]
