This book has exceeded my expectations. From the prophetic decrees to the prayers and devotional word. This book is like a daily dose of spiritual vitamins. It is a great start to your day and even a great way to end your day. The author put much thought into the layout and each decree that upon reading it, you would feel the impact. I am charged and encouraged every day I open it up. Definitely would recommend this book.

This is a very unique devotional book. Each day contains a short message from God written in the first person. We are then given scriptures that support the message. A short prayer is given to start your conversation with God. Then there is a list of decrees and declarations that the author wants you to read out loud. These positive statements, when read aloud, seem more real and more important. When starting to read this book, do not skip the introduction. There is much to learn here. The author also explains how the book came to be. One of my favorite passages in the Introduction is: "We should never be so busy that we cannot find the time to regroup, reflect, and marinate in God's presence."I am posting this review before I finish the book, because I want to read it day by day. There are 90 devotions here. I'm anxious to see how my life will change by following this study.I received a copy of the book from The Book Club Network and author for an honest review.
