I love John Pontius. This is a man who knows what he is talking about. Many people have read Visions of Glory, which is worth reading. But what really matters is obtaining your own relationship with Christ rather than reading about another person's relationship. John's other books, including this one, show the way to do that. The way is shown in the scriptures. John isn't reinventing the gospel, he's just helping us see the fulness of it that many of us have been missing. Read this book, and then dive into the scriptures. Pray like your soul depends on it. Come to know Christ.

This book was hard to put down as it is very inspirational and motivational. The best review I feel I can give for this book is this: "But behold, that which is of God inviteth and enticeth to do good continually; wherefore, every thing which inviteth and enticeth to do good, and to love God, and to serve him, is inspired of God."

John Pontius was just an ordinary man who was extraordinarily obedient to the whisperings of the Spirit. What that meant to him and his family is laid out in a journal of his thoughts and stories of an exceptional life. At first it was meant to be a collection for his family and dear friends, and thus you sense the openness and genuineness of his memories, but somehow it blossomed into an entire community of truth seekers who resonated with that simplicity of honest and inspiring accounts. Each of us has a lifetime of similar stories where the Lord has been present, the Spirit has testified, miracles have been witnessed, prayers have been answered and there have been moments when we have also been warned to go no further. Have we written those experiences down for our posterity? Perhaps some of them. Brother John's book has inspired me to be certain that those wonderful, sacred experiences from my life are captured for my children and grandchildren who will undoubtedly need to know at some future time that the Lord lives, watches over us, and is active in our lives. This volume is beautifully designed and executed from the glorious front cover, to the font used, to Teri Pontius' own comments about John's experiences and to the loving words of friends who knew him well. I so appreciate the efforts of many talented people, thank you! And Brother John, thank you!!

Absolutely life changing book. I had read most of John's unblogs, and found them to be priceless, but Journey to the Veil has some I had never seen, with some incredibly tender accounts explained by Terri that makes me want to complain less about my trials, and trust more in God. Thanks Terri. (And John...we know you were involved still)

One of the most important books of the century for followers of Jesus. I loved this dying man's words, it will enable you.

This is published by the late John Pontius' wife. It is a collection of his essays from his Unblog My Soul blog. This saves me from copying all of them from online. Gave this as a gift and will get a copy for myself as well.

I started out reading John Pontius' novels when I was new to the gospel. As I became ready for more, I found Following the Light, Zion, Visions of Glory, the Unblog, then Journey to the Veil. Each of these "journeys", for me were profound experiences of the heart and Spirit that are difficult to put into words. But John Pontius is a humble man with a rare gift of expressing powerful spiritual truths that open the heart and stretch the mind and spirit of the reader. Wherever you are in your own personal "Journey to the Veil" experiencing this book will raise you to a new level if you let it. I used the word experiencing because you can't just read any of his work...each is an experience that uplifts. Thank you, Brother Pontius for sharing your journey!

I meet and got to know John pretty well. My wife and I sat in his living room and had a wonderful discussion. He came to Boise and did a fireside for us. I followed his unblog faithfully and cherished every opportunity to talk with him. This book really speaks to my soul and heart. Thanks to his angel wife for putting this together.
