In Volume 16 of Slam Dunk, it's tournament time and the story continues after the Shohoku vs. Kainan High School match in which Shohoku nearly came back to beat the top seeded team but it all came down to Sakuragi free throw shot and the problem is, Sakuragi has never been a good perimeter or free throw shooter and unfortunately, it cost them the game. With Sakuragi having lost confidence in his game, Shohoku's basketball team captain Takenori Akagi has Sakuragi undergo a three-day boot camp of intense training to improve his shooting. Meanwhile, with Kainan and Ryonan High School having won one game each, the two teams take on each other. But with so many people confident that Kainan High School has the better team, Ryonan High School is about to unleash the new and improved Fukuda. Does Ryonan High School have any chance of beating Kainan High School? JUDGMENT CALL: If you love basketball, you will love â œSlam Dunkâ •!With the latest 16th volume of the popular basketball manga series, this latest volume is broken up into two arcs. One dealing with Sakuragiâ™s training to become a better shooter and the second arc focusing on the matches between the unbeaten teams, Kainan High School vs. Ryonan High School and the strategy that Ryonan develops in order to compete against Kainan High. In previous volumes, we know about Shohoku High School team captain Akagaiâ™s determination of wanting his team to make it into the championships but the problem is that, although Sakuragi is an excellent rebounder and really strong on defense, if the game depends on his shooting, Shohoku will not have a chance and they need to get him better immediately.
